

Market Wide Summary

During December, the Brooklyn market experienced its second annual decrease in sales for the year 2017, down 38% versus last year, which was the largest year-over-year drop in sales since March 2014. While the average sale price increased slightly versus December 2016, the median sale price decreased 6% as sales activity picked up in South Brooklyn. Average price per square foot was $908, up 18% year-over-year due to the increase in price per square foot for two and three plus bedrooms. Negotiations were less deep than last year as the difference from last ask price to sale price was 1.2% below the average asking price driven by increased competition from low inventory. The average days on market figure of 91, while the highest since 2013, was skewed by a few homes selling after sitting on the market for over two years.
